

St. John

The next window shows St. John, and beneath his feet is a chalice and a snake. The snake in the chalice is a traditional symbol of St. John, since, according to legend, an attempt was made on his life by poisoning the wine in his chalice. At the top of the window you can see a whip surrounded by a crown of thorns, a symbol of the flogging and crucifixion of Christ.